Dunbroch School's Bookish Christmas Tree

The Dunbroch family came together and demonstrated amazing team work under the watchful eye of Art Instructor, Martha Lavery, last week.

Young people and staff wanted to welcome the festive season into our school, and the energetic team worked diligently to create this stunning Christmas tree masterpiece, now taking pride of place in our reception area.

The tree is constructed entirely out of books, and many thought-provoking literary conversations were shared during the creation phase. We are grateful to all the generous donors of the books a year ago, which will enable us to keep this new Dunbroch tradition going year after year.
