

discovering the art of animation

We were thrilled to welcome Izzy from Lufton College recently. Izzy is part of Into Film, an incredible animation company that collaborates with Aardman to inspire and introduce young people to the world of animation and illustration. Their work is truly remarkable!

During the session, students explored and analysed a variety of genres, watched behind-the-scenes clips showcasing the creation of iconic Aardman characters, and even got hands-on by designing and crafting their own characters out of plasticine.

Building on their work, the students went on to storyboard their ideas, bringing their characters to life by designing a scene for them to appear in.

Students were then able to use Aardman software to film, edit and finalise their scenes involving the character they created and the storyline they developed.

“this is the career I’ve always wanted”

Providing opportunities for students to explore potential career paths is a core mission at Lufton College. We believe that knowledge is power, and we strive to empower our students to make informed decisions about the direction they want their careers and working lives to take. This session was a resounding success, sparking increased motivation and inspiration among the students. We’re excited to continue this partnership, with two additional sessions already scheduled with Into Film and Aardman for early 2025.
