

Student Trip to London

On Saturday two young people were supported in a trip to London. We started our day looking round China town, something that they was really interested in. We spoke about the different types of food we could find and had a general look around the streets, seeing market sellers and tradesmen bring in supplies for the day.

We were then offered the opportunity to look around a shop called Japanese Centre. This was something that really interested one of our students as she enjoys that type of culture. She tried some Japanese fizzy drink and some sushi, saying that the wasabi was 'seriously strong!' We then had a walk about Leicester Square, stopping for pizza for lunch before travelling over to the Natural History Museum. One of our students was extremely knowledgeable about the items on display and told us some interesting facts. We spent around 3 hours there looking at the different items, with one student being a personal tour guide for us.

From there we travelled to Westminster Bridge, where we looked at Big Ben, The Houses of Parliament and the London Eye. We walked across the bridge and along the river front back to Waterloo where we then travelled back. A great day from both! One student's comments 'It was AMAZING! We were trusted with space around the Natural History Museum which we appreciated. Best day out this term!'
