IN SUMMARY

Many of the current students at Brook View School have been with us a very short time but have found the transition to us comfortable and enriching. Some learners have experienced art and music for the first time and have found that they can be creative around our caring staff who support and nurture their work. Speaking, Listening and Reading are an integral part of the day and within this, learners have found voices they previously found difficult to use.

The usual holiday highlights of the calendar have been suitably marked and driven by learners themselves including collecting pumpkins for the Halloween party complete with carefully chosen scary movies and an odd coloured buffet.

The learning, supported by progression in reading and numeracy skills, continues to amaze Brook View staff but always leaving time for laughter, music and singing motivating and inspiring our learners.

Outcomes have been wonderful despite the many challenges and we look forward to another successful year at School.
