Description of trip: This week our teacher organised for us to do some charity work. We went to Morrisons supermarket to volunteer our services of packing customers shopping in exchange for a small donation to Morrisons chosen charity, Marie Curie. Marie Curie run hospices for people with Cancer. So, we were happy to raise money for such a worthy cause. We enjoyed being helpful and packing customer's shopping. One lady gave us £5 as she had been helped by Marie Curie when her husband was poorly. Our teaching assistant even did a bit of shopping so that we had extra customers to pack for. We enjoyed having a walk around Morrisons afterwards with our tiny trolleys. Our teacher treated us to a sugar ring doughnut then challenged us to the 'doughnut challenge' (this is where you have to eat your doughnut without licking your lips). We enjoyed giving back to the community on this trip!

Quotes:

"Would you like any help packing your bags?"

"Bread goes on the top!"

"Thank you!"
